Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories.

Copying. Using the same or very similar words to the original text or idea without acknowledgement of the source or using quotation marks. This includes copying material from a book, article, report or other written document, presentation, artwork, design, drawing, circuitry, computer program or software, website, other electronic resource, or another person's assignment without appropriate acknowledgement.

Inappropriate paraphrasing. Changing a few words and phrases while mostly retaining the original structure and/or progression of ideas of the original, and doing this without acknowledgement of the source. This also applies to citing some references but not others, and/or putting these into a reference list but not referencing them within the body of the text where appropriate, or inadequately referencing the paraphrasing throughout the assignment/report.

Collusion. Working with others but passing off the work as your own individual work. Collusion also includes providing your work to another student for the purpose of them copying it, presenting group work as your own or as the work of someone else, and allowing someone to copy or present your own work as their own individual work.

Inappropriate citation. Citing sources which have not been read, without acknowledging the "secondary source" from which knowledge of them has been obtained.

Duplication (self-plagiarism). Submitting your own work, which has been published elsewhere or has previously been prepared or submitted for another assessment or course, at UNSW or another institution/university.

Correct referencing practices

The UNSW Academic Skills support offer resources and guidance on bibliographies and citations. Students are also reminded that effective time management is an important part of study. One of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, draft and proper referencing of sources in any assessment items.

UNSW Library has the ELISE tool available to assist you with your study at UNSW. ELISE is designed to introduce new students the way that UNSW works, but it can also be a great refresher during your study. Complete the ELISE tutorial and quiz which enable you to...
