Learning and Teaching in this course

Following on from PEP1, the clinical workshops and clinical supervision in this course will provide further practical training in clinical skills of assessment, case formulation and treatment (e.g., CBT, DBT and PCIT). Trainees will be required to formulate Trainees are required to perform 2 ½ hour of intake duty per fortnight for the duration of the placement at the Psychology Clinic. Intake duty includes responding to clinic enquires, performing intake interview with potential clients and a range of administration duties. Compliance with the administrative procedures must be demonstrated to be satisfactory.

5. Audio-visual Session Recordings

Trainees should regularly review their client session recordings and select at least 3 recordings (minimum of one recording each month) to be submitted to relevant Clinic Supervisors for comments and feedback. These submissions should include a brief description of the session content and also self-reflections including aspects of the session that the trainee performed well and the aspects that require further improvement. This process helps trainees to develop and refine their self-reflective competencies in clinical practice.

6. Logbooks

Throughout the program, trainees should be keeping a professional log of all relevant practical work completed. The Professional Practice Logbook entries for the UNSW Psychology Clinic placement are recorded in the UNSW InPlace system. Each entry of the logbook must be signed by your placement Supervisor as endorsement of the activities completed. The Professional Practice Logbook entries for the external field placement is in a digital excel version and can be found on the clinic Teams site. Each page of the logbook must be signed by your placement Supervisor as endorsement of the activities completed. Please discuss with your supervisors the frequency of which the for

Additional Course Information

1. All trainees MUST maintain Provisional/General Psychologist registration with AHPRA for the duration of the course.
2. All trainees MUST have undergone their NSW Health Bulk Compliance Check and received full or partial verification before the commencement of PEP2.

Assessments

Assessment Structure

Assessment Item

Audio-visual session recordings

You will be required to submit client session recordings (around 20 minutes in length) to your clinic supervisors alongside self-reflections on the recordings. The recordings must include different session types across different age groups (e.g., assessment/therapy, child/adult). Candidates must submit at least one recording per month while on placement. Feedback is typically given verbally by your supervisors during supervision sessions.

All assessments use competency-based standards. You must receive satisfactory on all assessment items to pass the course.
